OBREGON EVOLVES QUEER IDEA FOR BORDER PATROL

Texas Rangers Clash With Band of Armed Greasers
and Kill Eight

(Associated Press by Federal Wire) WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10.—A brand new idea has been evolved by Gen. Obregon, following a conference between himself, Juan Amador, sub-secretary of foreign affairs for the de facto government, and Generals Scott and Funston. He announced that he would suggest it to the other conferees today.

His plan is to have the United States and the Carranzistas unite in guarding the border, the numbers of American and Mexican troops being equal, the Mexicans to patrol the American side of the line and the Americans to patrol the Mexican.

Texas Rangers Win Fight.

Another clash between Mexicans and Americans was reported last night. Despatches from Marathon, Texas, not far from El Paso, announce that eight armed Mexicans have been killed on the American side of the Rio Grande by a party of Texas rangers, under the command of Capt. Fox.

The ranger leader reports also that Col. Frederick W. Sibley, commanding the 14th Cavalry, and seven American troops, with three members of a civilian posse have engaged a band of Villistas across the Rio Grande, killing several. There were no casualties among the Americans.

These and other reports of minor friction along the border have induced the government to act. Eleven companies of coast artillerymen have been ordered from their posts on the Gulf and Atlantic coast and directed to proceed with all possible speed to the border, where they are instructed to report to Gen. Funston, who will assign them to duty as border guards.

CAMP FUNDS TO BE PUT TO USE IN SHORT ORDER

That no time is to be lost in applying the funds that have been and are being collected during the last two weeks for the training camp on Punch-bowl is evident from the fact that a committee Monday afternoon visited the old crater and picked out a site for the officers' building.

This committee, composed of Adj. Gen. Samuel I. Johnson, Col. W. R. Riley and Frank E. Thompson, will have general charge of the choosing of various sites about the camp.

Plans for the officers' building have been drawn up by architects from the 1st Separate Company of Engineers, and are now on display in the adjutant-general's office. They show a building 60x80 feet in dimensions, with a fine wide lanai, room for officers and an assembly room for officers' school. This will be the general administration building of the camp.

Already the 300-yard rifle range has been completed under the direction of Col. Riley and work is to be commenced at once on the other ranges. Gen. Johnson said today that the committee on funds is still about $1000 short of the amount it is trying to raise, but is confident that the total will be secured within a few days.

CHINESE REVOLUTIONARY GENERAL SNEAKS ASHORE AT JAPANESE PORT

(Special Cable to Hawaii Ship) TOKIO, Japan, May 10.—Gen. Kwang Hsing, who reached Yokohama on board the T. K. K. liner Shinyo Maru yesterday, left the vessel before she docked, going ashore in a small boat at the suggestion of the Japanese authorities, who feared that attempts to assassinate him might be made by Yuan Shih-Kai men in the city.

He was taken to Uraga harbor and conveyed to Tokyo by Japanese friends. Several secret service men are escorting him wherever he goes. He, Arima, former consul at Honolulu, was another passenger in the Shinyo Maru. He reported a pleasant voyage.

Y. M. C. A. COOPERATIVE TRADE SCHOOLS READY FOR OPENING

J. Brooks Brown Elected Principal; First Active Work Begins August 7

Adopting final plans for the opening of the new "Y. M. C. A. cooperative trade schools," the association educational committee yesterday afternoon elected J. Brooks Brown as principal of the schools and head of the faculty to be in charge of the day classes at the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Brown is at present with the department of public instruction and a teacher in Kaahumanu school. Since 1914 he has been connected with the department, having taught in McKinley High school and in grade schools in Hawaii. Having had experience in school work and in the methods of association work, he is well fitted for the position to which he has been chosen.

Following graduation from high school in Marshall, Missouri, in 1905, Mr. Brown taught in Missouri schools for two years, one year of this time as principal of the public schools at Hardeman, Missouri. After a year as traveling cashier of the Rock Island Railroad eating house system, he entered Emory University at Oxford, Georgia, and was graduated in 1911 with a Ph. B. degree. For two years following this he was principal of the high school department of the Page Military Academy at Los Angeles, California.

Since coming to Hawaii Mr. Brown has been actively connected with the Y. M. C. A. He has been an instructor in English in the night school and for the past two summers has been on the faculty of the boys' vacation school.

The new cooperative trade schools will be in three divisions. A school for printer's apprentices with boys half time in shop and half time in school, a continuation school for boys and a preparatory school offering "pre-vocational" studies to a limited number of eighth grade boys. The "printer's apprentice school" will open on August 7, the "business boys' school" on August 14 and the "preparatory school" on September 18. A limited number of students will be accepted in each of these schools or classes and these on applications made at the Y. M. C. A.

J. Brooks Brown, first principal of new Y. M. C. A. cooperative trade schools, which shortly open activities.

The association educational committee yesterday elected other men subject to their acceptance for positions on the faculty of these schools and will announce their names shortly. Advertisements begin today in daily papers on behalf of the cooperating printers calling for boys to learn the printing trade through the Y. M. C. A. cooperative school.

PROHIBITION IN HAWAII IS URGED

Speaker at Church Conference Says Transport Troops Carouse Here

(Associated Press by Federal Wire) SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., May 10.—The big sensation of the Methodist Episcopal conference in session here yesterday, was the introduction of a resolution by H. B. Johnson of Berkeley, Cal., calling upon Congress to prohibit the importation of intoxicants into the Hawaiian Islands.

In speaking for the resolution, Francis M. Larkin of San Francisco declared that the need for such legislation had become more and more evident of late. He added that the enlisted men of the colored regiments, who land at Honolulu on their way to and from Manila, indulge in "unspeakable carousals," as a consequence of the unlimited opportunities for getting drunk they have in the island city.

The resolution aroused considerable opposition among the delegates, many of whom held that it reflected upon the morality of the soldiers. After a lengthy debate the resolution was referred to the committee on temperance.

(Mainland church papers a few months ago contained accounts of the disorders at Iwilei at a time when a transport was here en route to the Philippines, the only incident of its kind here. The articles referred to the fact that the men involved in the disorders had become inflamed by drink. This is probably the basis for the resolution mentioned above. It should be added that the army authorities began an investigation of the Iwilei disorders at once and that officers of the 25th Infantry denied their men were responsible for the trouble. It was also said that the men discharged from the army, but still wearing the uniform, may have been the trouble-makers. The colored soldiers on Oahu protested with good reason, against their entire command being criticised because of the action of a few reckless ones.)

Advertising is either good for ALL TIME or it is good for NO TIME. It can't be essential in December, without being just as essential in every other month of the business year. Men need necessities and luxuries today as well as yesterday or tomorrow.

IN WAR ARENA

ITALIANS SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES, SAYS VIENNA.

LONDON, England, May 10.—On the southern front, Vienna claims the Austrians have made marked gains in the fighting with the Italian forces. According to a despatch from that city the Italian troops have suffered heavily in the recent battling near San Martino, where an Austrian mine was exploded. The mine is said to have completely wrecked the Italian position and killed hundreds of Victor Emmanuel's men.

The Russians have beaten the Ottoman armies and driven them back from the mountain chain defenses in the Mush region, capturing many prisoners and inflicting heavy losses upon the Turks.

Slaves Driven Through Persia. The Russian column that has been advancing through Persia, with its base at Teheran, has advanced from Hamadan westward toward Bagdad and is now reported to be moving steadily forward.

A large Turkish force, believed to have been part of that which had been watching the British force at Kut-el-Amara, has been encountered by the Russians and shattered and driven westward, losing many men and much booty as it fell back toward Bagdad. Advances from Constantinople report the Turks as engaged in constructing a railroad across the desert, by which they hope to launch an invasion of Egypt.

CYMRIC CREW LANDED ON IRISH COAST.

LONDON, England, May 10.—One hundred and seven sea-battered members of the crew of the big White Star liner Cymric reached Bantry, Ireland, last night, bringing with them the first authentic story of the torpedoing of the steamer by a German diver, which fled after firing the torpedo.

Several of the men were wounded by the explosion that wrecked the steamer and sent her to the bottom, despite the heroic battle made to save her by her commander and the men under him. The officers declare that the ship was submerged and attacked without warning or a chance to save the crew being given.

Faithful Equine Heroes Are Soon To Be Retired

Fire Department Will Not Need Bill and Jerry and They Will Be Pensioned

Bill and Jerry, famous fire fighters, will soon retire from the Honolulu fire department. These faithful brutes who have dashed to many a scene of devastation, who have stood staunch in the white heat and the glare times innumerable, are soon to leave forever the vocation of their lives. For a few more weeks Bill and Jerry will stand at the wagon they have drawn so long, then they go to a happy hunting ground on earth—a well-earned reward in the Park department.

The gasoline tractor at the central station on Ford and Beretania streets is being remodeled to carry the two 80-gallon chemical tanks now on the horse-drawn truck. When the change is made about July 1, the wagon, an old-timer in the service, will be discarded and the tractor will stand in its place.

Slowly but with certainty, gasoline-propelled vehicles have supplanted horses in the local fire department. In January two teams were turned over to the Park department when three gasoline truck pumps costing over $30,000 were installed. Now Bill and Jerry are going and fire officials predict it will not be long before every horse is out of the department.

How many stirring dashes in the heat of day or the dead of night Bill and Jerry have made is not known. It is certain their quivering nostrils have suffered the suffocating smoke and sickening steam scores of times—and liked it, too. Could these mighty monarchs of an illustrious past recite their deeds, even with modesty, it would make a long but exciting tale. This span of dappled greys is well along in years now, especially for horses, but excellent care has kept them looking like four-year-olds.

"They would probably die of homesickness if they were turned out to pasture," said Assistant Chief Walter W. Blaisdell today, "but as long as they're in harness they're all right. They seem to live on forever that way."

When Bill and Jerry answer their last fire call, when that faithful pair, who have fought so long together step for the last time with necks arched and eyes blazing from their accustomed stall and past the fire door, there will probably be no farewell services. But every fireman will give a goodby pat and the greys will think—if horses do think—something like Caesar said, "We came, we saw, we conquered"—everything but gasoline.

THEY'D ACCEPT JUDGE STUART'S RESIGNATION NOW

So Washington Correspondent is Informed at Department of Justice

By C. S. ALBERT.

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence) WASHINGTON, D. C., April 28.—It is stated by those in authority that intimations reached the department of justice some months ago that Circuit Judge T. B. Stuart would tender his resignation to Chief Justice Robertson and Circuit Judge Whitney were re-appointed. This intimation was based on the fact that they are Republicans and Judge Stuart thought the places should be given to deserving Democrats. No attention was paid the suggestion of resignation and the reappointments were made after careful investigation and the holding of a veritable referendum on the subject.

And the nomination of J. Wesley Thompson to the circuit bench continues in a condition of suspension. Confirmation was held up by the senate judiciary committee following the receipt of cablegrams from Honolulu saying protests against the appointment were en route.

THREE MORE CHIPS SUNK IN WAR ZONE.

LONDON, England, May 10.—Lloyd's last night issued an announcement that the Swedish schooner Harold and the French bark Marie Malinos have been sunk in the war zone, and that the bark Memento, loaded with lumber and bound for English ports, from Brevig, was caught and set afire by a German submarine.

YOUNG JAPANESE BOY A PRODIGY IN ELECTRICITY

Narikatsu Haida, Japanese lad, who is a prodigy in electricity.

Master Narikatsu Haida, 13-year-old boy of Dr. K. Haida, prominent Japanese doctor and president of the Japanese Charity Hospital of this city, is a remarkable electrician for his age. He is one of the pupils of the Central Grammar School.

Young Haida is fond of books on electricity. He spends much time at the Library of Hawaii reading these books and is said to have read every book on electricity in the library already, besides his own books, which his father purchased for him. He has made his own room into an electrical laboratory and studies there every day after school, and is now trying to invent a new fire alarm system.

The boy's invention is a wireless system which works through the heat of the fire. He has also invented an electrical bicycle and has applied for a United States patent.

At the age of 6 he was repairing watches and electric bells and at 8 he began to study electricity closely. At the present time he repairs autos and motorcycles and one auto stand depends upon him to help when the machines get out of order.

SENATE AGREES TO COMPROMISE ON ARMY BILL?

Reported Upper House Conferees Will Surrender Volunteer Army Provision

(Associated Press by Federal Wire) WASHINGTON, D. C., May 10.—Agreement on the general terms of the army increase measures is at last in sight, according to statements made at the capital last night. It was announced that the conferees expect to reach a compromise that will include most of the features of the Chamberlain, or senate bill.

The senate, however, it is understood, has agreed to surrender the volunteer army provisions of the Chamberlain bill, while insisting upon the strengthening of the house provisions for citizen training camps. It was predicted that the final bill will contain provisions for an army on peace footing of not less than 175,000 men, and a war strength of 220,000.

Legislative observers also said that the clause providing for a government nitrate plant, to cost $15,000,000, probably will be adopted. The amended measure is expected to be passed and sent to the White House next week.
